Commentary

Although global economic growth slowed over the quarter, the Canadian economy showed relative strength. The economy was supported by surprisingly strong export numbers.

After a strong start to the year, the Canadian equity market continued its upward trend over the quarter, but at a more moderate pace. Trade tensions, political unrest in the U.S. and elevated equity valuations negatively impacted market sentiment. The U.S. Federal Reserve cut interest rates twice, and interest rates declined globally. The Bank of Canada held interest rates steady, although markets appear to expect one rate cut in 2020.

Investors continued to chase high-quality, high-multiple businesses, which led the Value Strategy sleeve, with its elevated cash position, to detract from performance. Canadian growth stocks, on the other hand, performed well despite global macroeconomic challenges. Top sectors within the Growth Strategy included Financials, Information Technology and Consumer Staples. The Equity Income Strategy also contributed to returns over the period, driven by the strong performance of its holdings in the Financials, Utilities and Energy sectors.

The Morningstar quartile ranking reflects performance as of September 30, 2019 and is subject to change monthly. Morningstar is an independent organization that groups mutual funds with generally similar investment objectives for comparison purposes and ranks them on a historical basis. These rankings are broken into quarters or quartiles. Within a group, the top 25% (or quarter) of the funds are in the first quartile, the next 25% are in the second quartile, the next group in the third quartile, and the bottom 25% of funds with the poorest relative performance are in the fourth quartile.
